

Academic Standing Appeal Form

A student who believes that his/her academic standing (suspension) does not reflect the quality or quantity of effort put forth, or which is the result of extenuating circumstances, may appeal his/her standing to the Academic Standing Appeals Committee. The student must write a letter to this committee giving the reasons why the academic standing should be reevaluated. The committee will hold a meeting at which the student's written appeal will be presented. The student will be notified of the committee's decision. A student who is placed on academic suspension for two or more times is suspended for two regular semesters. A student cannot appeal the suspension of two or more suspensions.
